RAILROADS MAKE ENORMOUS REVENUE GAINS

SHOALS OPERATION WOULD COST ROYALTY, IS REPORT

County Road Bonds Sold; Work To Be Started Soon

CALDWELL AND CO. PURCHASE ISSUE OF $400,000 AT 93.10; BIDDING IS SPIRITED

Representatives of Buyers From Many States Attend Hearings Here

WILL LET CONTRACT FOR WORK AT ONCE

Construction of Highway System Will Be Begun At Early Date

Spirited bidding for the $400,000 worth of county bonds was engaged yesterday at an all-day session of the county board of revenue. There were 13 representatives from bond concerns representing five states. Ohio bond concerns had three representatives present from the cities of Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo. The bonds were finally bought by Caldwell and company of Nashville, Tenn., at 93.10, representing a discount of $6.90, the whole amounting to $27,600.00.

The bond sale is considered well sold and at a better figure than at first anticipated. There are three bidders for the contracts to build the roads, being The Goodrich company, Lawrence, Nixon and Phillips, and Rhodes and Ellner. It was first contemplated by the board of revenue to sell the bonds to the ones contracting for the roads. This idea was abandoned when it was found that a better consideration could be gotten for the bonds if sold to the bond buyers and the work paid for in cash.

The contract for road construction will be let at the session being held today; the matter is now being thoroughly gone over by the county officials in connection with their engineers. When contract is let work will commence at once and the whole be pushed to completion at the very earliest possible moment. This marks a great epoch in the road building projects of the county and is a distinct step forward in this most important line of constructive improvement.

WILL LET CONTRACT FOR RIVER BRIDGE

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13.—Contract for the construction of the steel and concrete bridge across the Cahaba river between Jefferson and Shelby counties will be awarded to the Columbus Construction company of Columbus, Ga., while the Converse Bridge and Steel company of Chattanooga will construct a concrete and steel bridge across the Mulberry fork of the Warrior river between Blount and Cullman counties as a result of the opening of bids by the state highway commission yesterday.

The Columbus Construction Company bid $49,571.46 on the Jefferson-Shelby project, which will contain one steel span with concrete approaches. The Converse company agreed to construct the Blount-Cullman bridge, which will contain three steel spans and will have concrete approaches, for $26,656.

Contracts for the construction of the projects will be awarded by the state highway commission at the regular meeting next Monday.

Mrs. O'Hare to Lead Children's Army To Plead With President Harding

Mrs. Kate O'Hare, who served a prison term for violation of the wartime espionage act, will lead an army of about fifty children to Washington to plead with President Harding for the release of their fathers, all serving Federal prison terms for violation of the same act under which Mrs. O'Hare was convicted. The expedition starts from St. Louis April 13. Here Mrs. O'Hare is shown with two of the children who will accompany her. They are Don and Elbertine Reeder, both of Wilson, Okla.

ARBUCKLE, FREED, HOLDS NO GRUDGE AGAINST ANY MAN

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—"I hold no animosity against any man. I want to get back to work in my life's profession. I hope to come back. Pictures are dear to me. They are my life's work. I have no plans just now because I could not make any until this cloud was lifted. I will consult with my friends within the next few days."

Such was the future outlook outlined today by Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, film comedian, who, on his third trial for manslaughter, was freed of the charge by a jury of eight men and four women after a minute's deliberation.

"I am an American. I accept the verdict of an American jury." This was the statement of District Attorney Mathew Brady. Arbuckle expects to leave for Los Angeles about Friday.

The debt funding commission, headed by Secretary Mellon, will organize at once and will notify representatives of the British government that it is ready to proceed with the funding of their obligations.

Negotiations will follow with France, Belgium and Italy probably in the order named.

ADVERTISE TRUTH, ADVERTISE OFTEN, ADVERTISE SIMPLY IS IRWIN'S ADVICE

Personality in Advertising Necessary As Personality In Direct Salesmanship

As Well Try to Run Automobile Without Gasoline, He Says

The third proved "the charm" of the addresses of Pryor Irwin, now being given at the chamber of commerce rooms under the auspices of the local retail merchants. Mr. Irwin spoke last night on the value of advertising and the importance of suitable window and interior displays.

The speaker said that as personality of the right kind was necessary in meeting and serving customers so personality in decorating and advertising should be paramount. He declared that advertisements should not state "We have all grades of shoes," as such language meant nothing to the readers—it was not definite enough. He said that the salient facts as to the shoe stock and special brands should be written up in an attractive manner for the press. He said that the offerings of a store should be presented in a newsy informing manner, reference being made to new arrivals of goods, just as any other news of the community would be told.

Compared Advertising

By way of illustration, Mr. Irwin said that as well try to run an automobile without gasoline as to seek to run a business without newspaper advertising. He declared that much time and consideration should be given to the wording and English of an advertisement if the business people wished to get best results. It was explained that the more condensed an advertisement was the more time and thought should be put upon its composition.

Mr. Irwin began his address by saying important things about the window displays of a store. He said windows dressed as they should be would appear as works of art, and that the schemes should be changed at frequent intervals. The interior of the store, according to the speaker, was equally important to the windows, and that no pains should be spared in making everything about the store appear as a harmonious whole. As a general rule, the speaker advised, simplicity and plainness in all decorations.

Should be Truthful

In referring to the information carried in advertisements, Mr. Irwin said

Birmingham Company Will Manufacture 1,000 Cars At Cost of $1,500,000

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—American railroads are on the upgrade to prosperity, according to reports filed today with the interstate commerce commission, covering operating incomes for February.

With only 55 roads showing deficits, the total net income of all carriers for the month was $47,762,000, compared to a net deficit of $5,176,800 the same month last year.

In the southern district the carriers reported a net operating income of $7,048,800, compared to $466,257 the same month last year. This was at a rate of return of 3.98 per cent. The tabulation, it was stated, was based on reports from 200 railroads.

BIRMINGHAM, April 13.—Railroad prosperity and general improvement in business was forecast today by industrial leaders here, following the placing yesterday of the largest order for steel cars ever recorded in the district.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad ordered 1,000 cars from the Chickasaw Shipbuilding and Car company. The cars will cost $1,500,000 and hundreds of idle men will be employed filling the order.

BUILDING WRECKED BY BOMB; WOMEN ESCAPE ON ROOFS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 13.—Explosion of two bombs wrecked a five story tenement on Eldridge street early today, injured three persons seriously and threw a wide district into a mad panic.

Two men were seen running from the place just before the explosion occurred. The roar of the explosions, heard for blocks, brought thousands into the street who watched frantic women and children racing along the adjoining buildings.

Fire started and proved difficult to fight because explosions had wrecked the upper floors. Patrolmen Edward Tracy, who was on the scene almost immediately, fought his way to the upper floors, where he was beaten back by smoke. Police believe the explosion was caused by dynamite bombs.

Work Progresses On New Highway

It is understood that 2,000 yards of the contract on East pike from Hartselle is completed and that the work is moving at a satisfactory pace. Messrs. Jackson and Burleson, the contractors, who are in the city attending the session of the board of revenue, hope to have the work well in hand before the summer months are gone. Those who have traveled the newly completed road report it in a first class condition. When completed it will be one of the best stretches of road in the entire county. Several grades will be eliminated, shortening the route to some extent and doing away with some sharp inclines.

Drys Alarmed When Wets Win Many Elections

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—For the first time since the Anti-Saloon League drew its hot dry breath across the United States, the "liberal" element in congress seriously believes that the tide of popular opinion is turning against the Volstead law so strongly that something can soon be done toward modifying the law, probably along the line of light wines and beer.

The anti-Volsteaders have said before that sentiment was turning against Volsteadism, but they said it as a matter of principle and were not sure of their ground. This time they sincerely believe it and their belief is shared by many dry congressmen.

Three notable liberal victories scored at the polls this week have contributed largely to this belief. The defeat of two veteran Illinois dry members of the house in the primary created a situation in the house today that is not far removed from panic. Both were beaten by liberal candidates.

10 Railroads Claim Loss On Operation

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13.—Ten of the 15 short line railroads operating in Alabama offered testimony and exhibits before the public service commission today which showed that they suffered a net loss during 1921 of $364,792.01 or $607.98 for every mile of railroad they operate in the state. J. A. Strayer, of Atlanta, traffic manager of the southeastern classification territory, appeared before the commission as the representative of the railroads.

Mr. Strayer filed a large number of exhibits which showed how badly the short line roads fared financially during the year and promised the commission to submit the financial statistics of the other five short lines as soon as they could be compiled.

The railroads represented by Mr. Strayer at this hearing were the Alabama and Mississippi, Alabama and Northwestern, Alabama Central, Alabama and Northern, Atlanta and St. Andrews Bay, Birmingham and South-eastern, Gulf, Florida and Alabama, Manatee and Repton, Sumter and Choctaw, and Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia.

Government Would Be Handcapped, The Army Officer Tells Senators

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Immediate further development of Muscle Shoals to "contribute to a permanent and prosperous system of agriculture" was demanded in the senate today by Senator Capper, of Kansas.

"We should resume work immediately on Muscle Shoals. The nation's fertilizer bill now is $250,000,000 annually. I believe it is possible to reduce this by one half, if we carry out the Muscle Shoals project," Capper said.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Manufacture of fertilizer at Muscle Shoals either by Uncle Sam or Henry Ford will be handicapped by contracts compelling the payment of royalties to holders of patents, it was declared today by Major J. H. Burns, army nitrate expert, before the senate agriculture committee.

Burns declared the government was under royalty contracts with companies controlling both known processes of manufacturing fertilizer.

Burns said the cyanamid process of manufacturing fertilizers by using nitrogen was controlled by the Air Nitrates corporation. To use this process the government would have to pay $8 royalty under a war contract, he said.

The only other known process, the Haber process, he added, is held by the General Electric company, which has a contract with the government, calling for $5 a ton in royalties on all nitrogen used in manufacturing fertilizers through its process.

"These royalty contracts would not absolutely prevent the manufacture of cheap fertilizer at Muscle Shoals, but they would be a handicap," Burns declared.

TEACHERS MEET IN BIRMINGHAM

(International News Service)

BIRMINGHAM, April 13.—With approximately 10,000 teachers and educational officials present, representing every precinct in the state, the annual convention of the Alabama Educational association today began its three day session.

Governor Thomas E. Kilby delivered an address to the special Kilby committee early in the day. This committee consists of leading business, professional men and farmers, who are keenly interested in the educational system and is meeting in advance of the association.

The committee will remain in session through Saturday, meeting jointly with the association to offer advice and support.

Today is a holiday in the Birmingham schools, adjournment having been declared so that local teachers can attend the convention. More than 7,500 teachers from outside the city are registered, exceeding all past attendance records.

All officials of the state department of education, visiting officials from other states, and noted educators from many cities will appear on the program.

"Good Old Democratic Times."

Recently a Nashville manufacturer had occasion to write a letter to a customer in Illinois, who had fallen behind in his payments. This had been a good customer of many years' standing, and bills had been paid promptly and repeat orders were frequent.

The Nashville firm was loathe to press for payment, but on March 21 wrote, asking for a plain statement as to the cause of delinquency.

The Illinois customer replied that these are "Republican times and collections are rotten."

The Nashville concern was so impressed with the reply that it took the occasion to write:

"We feel sure, however, that you, with us, agree that the star of hope is shining in the far distance and before many months have passed away, good old Democratic times will come back to us."

Twenty-five years ago it was the boast of the business man that the sun of prosperity only shone during Republican administrations. The Republican party seized upon the shining sun, copious rainfall and bountiful crops and claimed them as their own. If business was good, the Republicans took the credit for it; if there was a period of depression, the Democrats were blamed.

The G. O. P. hammered and hammered on this point until most of the leaders really believed that they were responsible for the movements of the sun and the stars.

But strange things came to pass. Out of power for eight years, the old leadership passed and took the secret of celestial control with them. There are none in the Harding administration who can turn the tide of depression; none can bring relief to the farmer or the manufacturer. Prosperity refuses to respond to the incantations of the medicine makers and the geni of old refuses to appear, no matter how diligently the administration Aladins rub the lamp.

"Good old Democratic times" are on the way. —Nashville Tennessean.

Seeking the Line of Least Resistance Spells Failure.

Many people seek the easiest way to do a thing. It is human nature to do so, but usually it leads to failure. Seeking the easiest way is called by psychologists and scientists "the line of least resistance." Many follow it unconsciously, because it really is the natural thing to do, but it is not always the best. Still there is in it an element of conservation of energy, which is not bad for human kind.

Few people will use the revolving door of a department store when a smaller door is propped open nearby. Many a merchant, whose store had to be entered by climbing a few steps, has greatly increased business by eliminating the steps making the entrance slope gradually up.

Conservation of energy is a natural law. The human body recognizes this law and expends as little energy as possible—seeks the easiest way.

Without the human instinct of seeking the line of least resistance, there would be little inventive progress in the way of labor-saving devices.

Laziness is the father of invention. For instance, the jack which you put under your auto axle when you change tires was invented by an Ohio farmer boy who disliked lifting heavy wagons by hand.

The eternal human desire to find an easier way, while excellent up to a certain point, is the cause of most laziness—"putting it off till tomorrow."

Life's problems are very simple, easily understood. Encountering them, first seek an easier immediate way, then—if none is found—mobilize energy for quick attack.

A problem or job is difficult or easy, according to one's viewpoint. The perpetual formula for success is: Refuse to be dismayed or disheartened by the apparent size of a task. Tackle it as quickly as possible—immediately and with all available energy. This is what men who have achieved success will tell you. "Do it now," is a capital slogan. You will find it lacked over desks of some business men. Another you often see is "What is worth doing, is worth doing well." If lived up to the two would make almost anyone successful. The trouble is we forget to live up to them and we take the easy way too often.—Anniston Star.

Zita.

A world that has wept over the fate of Mary Stuart, Catharine of Aragon and Eugenie surely has a tear for Zita of Bourbon-Parma, not yet 30 but a widow with six young children and one unborn; once an Empress, now an exile and in want.

Few have endured such misfortune as has come to this young woman since that day when the Archduke Charles stopped pushing his baby carriage in the parks of Vienna and was called upon to rule an empire. As a girl of 26 she matched her wits against those matters of intrigue who dominated the Germany of 1918. She almost won. But Charles was weak in the hands of the Prussian war lords. He lacked the courage to go through with his peace letter to her brother, Prince Sixtus, and, perhaps for that reason more than any other, he is today in his shroud in Funchal instead of on the throne of Austria-Hungary.

Hungary last October, Zita, the co-leader, traveled at Charles' side in the airplane from Switzerland into battle, capture and exile. We find her in January racing across Europe to the bedside of her sick son. She bore all her sorrows and disappointments "without bitterness."

"More for you than for me," Zita chose this motto for herself when she was a young girl. Well if not wisely has she been steadfast to it.

The world may have gained a little in tranquility and order by Charles' death. It has gained much by that example of devotion set by the expectant mother who offered her life's blood to her husband as he lay on his deathbed in that leaky roofed house on Madeira. And there will be few that will not endorse the plea of the King of Spain, expressed in a letter to the Pope, asking that steps be taken to provide suitable support for Zita and her children.—From the New York Herald.

Coming Home to Roost.

Senator Lodge is getting at least a little of what he deserves. It is said that in Massachusetts the elements antagonistic to England are combining against him with the object of defeating him in his race for re-election. They have turned on him, the dispatches say, because he was one of the chief proponents of the four-Power Treaty, which they opposed because it lines us up with England. Senator Lodge professes to be not at all worried over the situation, but declares that it is "amusing."

It may not appear so amusing to him later on. There is plenty of anti-England sentiment in Massachusetts—perhaps enough to turn the scales against Massachusetts' most prominent politician. To the average citizen, however, there is some amusement to be derived from this latest turn of events. These elements which oppose Mr. Lodge now were his fast friends during the League fight. He went out of his way to pander to them and cultivated an anti-British attitude in order to line them up against the League. His ardent admirer, the Boston Transcript, used to refer to the League as a British pact, and nothing was left undone to convince the anti-British elements of Massachusetts that if we should enter the League we would become the ally and catspaw of England. So those elements whooped and hurraed for Mr. Lodge as the man who was fighting to preserve America's independence and save us from being placed again under the British yoke.

If they now succeed in defeating him it will be his own fault. He fostered, if he did not implant, in their minds the idea that an internal agreement with England meant an alliance with that hated country. He has changed his views on that subject—he is a wonderful quick-change artist—but they have not and they are out gunning for him. If they get him, he will have been laid low with a gun for which he himself furnished the ammunition.—Charleston News and Courier.

The emancipation of the cotton growers of the south now seems assured. The farmers cotton pool which is being formed in the state is one of the very helpful measures along the right lines which is just now attracting the attention of many. Already many thousands of bales of cotton are being signed up, and judging from past experiences of those who have sold in the pool is that they have saved from $5.00 to $15.00 per bale in grades alone. If there be wholehearted cooperation on the part of the producers with those who have the matter in charge something worth while will be wrought before another cotton crop is planted and marketed.

This means is along the right lines. It hits at the tap root of the malady. It is pursuing the right course at the right time. The cotton farmer has suffered long and patiently. The sun is rising and a better day is sure to dawn.

It is Easter. The time when bud and blossom have burst the bonds which held them, and is expressed in the blooming flowers; the leafing trees; a general putting on of new life typical of the great doctrine of the resurrection. It is a season which is always heralded with great joy. In the many churches of the land the inspiring Easter anthems will be sung by happy thousands. A new season is here; a new epoch, bringing forcibly to mind the fact of a risen Lord, and with it hope for eternal life.

Pity it is that in every crisis of American history there should be profiteers who would profit at the expense of those less fortunate. Already there is reported from some points of the nation profiteering in coal. None but those with sordid and calloused minds indeed could be guilty of engaging in a custom of this kind when many are struggling for the bare necessities of life. Coal is a necessity which to many can not be dispensed with. Many find it hard, indeed to buy it when it is selling at a reasonable price. To take advantage of circumstances to increase the profit on a necessary item in many homes of the land borders on robbery under the guise of legality.

If the legislative bodies of our government would combine the same energy in effecting wholesome legislation with the energy they use when in trying to stay in, and when out trying to get in, the country would be a whole lot better off; would it? We think so.

A half hearted favor is worse than no favor at all. The favor or courtesy however small is greatly enhanced when a wholehearted purpose is back of it; it is then sincere. A wholehearted no, is better than a half purposed yes.

One of the greatest menaces to the boy life of the nation, and ultimately to the man power, is the fact that so many of the boys of the country do not know how to do anything; do not know a trade. It is a growing menace and will increase as the years go by unless something is done to correct it.

It has been demonstrated clearly by statistics that a great majority of the boys who enter high school do not continue until they graduate. Hence they leave off where they should be very careful to begin and stick, and are what might be termed gleaners, taking and doing just anything which they can get to do. It is a serious question and calls for the best thought and corrective methods.

How You May Make Your Lips True Aids to Real Loveliness

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCKY LIPS are the most pleasant features of a beautiful woman's face. To realize to what a degree lips make the facial expression, shut your eyes and try to visualize the face of some friend or acquaintance. If you can do this clearly, the mouth speak to you. If it is a pleasant, smiling mouth, the impression will be a pleasant one. If it is a dissatisfied mouth, its expression will probably tell you something of the disposition of its owner.

For lips not only make or mar facial beauty, but they also can speak a silent language which makes them the most expressive feature of your face. They show inherited tendencies as well as expressing in the lines about them the efforts you have made to mould your character.

The shape of your mouth, then, serves as an index. Thin lips with down-curved corners are indicative of stubbornness, while normal, slightly full lips which drop a bit at the corners tell that their owner is super-sensitive. This latter quality will bring unnecessary suffering, so one should, possibly, try to overcome it, although it also brings an understanding of others, which is a desirable quality.

In whatever class you fall, you can do much to acquire a pleasant expression about your lips. Do all you can to cultivate a healthy, happy frame of mind, and this will be reflected in the expression of your mouth.

Above all things, never acquire the nervous habit of biting your lips. Not only will biting them twist your lips out of shape and detract from the expression of your mouth, but it will injure the texture of your lips.

Cold and windy weather is dreaded by many because it cracks and dries the lips until they become very painful. If you are inclined to have dry skin, your lips will be especially sensitive to cracking from the wind and cold. The following lotion is recommended for chapped lips:

For Chapped Lips.

Cocoa butter..... 20 grammes
Oil of sweet almonds. 20 grammes
Oxide of zinc..... 5 grammes
Tincture of vanilla... 1 gramme

Apply as often as necessary. It is well to rub this on the lips always before going out of doors.

Fever blisters are not only objectionable and painful, but they materially mar the beauty of your mouth. Some people seldom have this objectionable ailment, while others are often troubled with it.

These sores are due to microbe infection, and often come when your body is in a feverish or run-down condition. You should never attempt to remove the sores, but should let them dry up naturally and drop off.

When the irritation first begins and you know a fever blister is coming, application of medicated alcohol will often serve to dry up the infection before it has started. Otherwise, the following ointment will be helpful:

Salve for Fever Blisters.

Cocoa butter..... 2 grammes
Oil of sweet almonds. 8 grammes
Tincture of benzoin... 10 drops

Apply often and the sore will be less painful and will heal more rapidly.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Have You Heard the Rumblings of the House-cleaning Storm?

WHEN early spring begins to send our shafts of brilliant light into the windows, lighting up all the corners, the house-cleaning storm is due very shortly to burst upon the family. Every dingy place in the rugs looks dirtier and dingier, every spot on wall or paper stands out, every worn place in the upholstery cries out for repair, and a general dusty appearance over all precipitates the coming of the storm.

This condition steals unawares into all manner of homes, quite impartially, no matter how carefully they may have been cleaned and cared for all winter, so no one need feel ashamed. It's just the breaking-up of the crystallized winter, and all things, both animate and inanimate, cry out for rehabilitation.

The pre-house-cleaning tasks are those of elimination, such as doing away with the useless both upstairs and down, a duty which cannot be performed in a day, but should be attacked daily until all is complete, and we really need all that remains. Furniture should be repaired if broken, rugs should be cleaned, mattresses and pillows made over, linens repaired and replenished, plain sewing attended to, and we are then ready for the real cleaning. It is a good time to have screens dusted and repainted, window blinds repaired, and all garden tools put in shape for their first use.

It seems as if ten days were really arranged so that the work might be done at this time, when social life is quietly resting for the quiet of Easter-time. Why not take advantage of this time for pre-cleaning preparations?

The cleaning-closet is another spot to examine to see that all needed tools are ready. There is nothing so necessary in house-cleaning as a ladder. There are several new ones in the market which will engage the housewife's attention. One is the newly-constructed chair-ladder. It is four steps high, and the chair is very strongly constructed, so there is little danger of tipping over. This ladder is also high enough for ordinary use.

Then there is the new folding ladder, which is a great convenience and a step ahead in condensed conveniences. If paper is to be removed from the walls, there is the small can and spray, with liquid made for the purpose, which makes the job easy. Paperers prefer to put layer upon layer rather than do the job as they may make a prohibitive price on it, but if there are big boys in the family they can do it just as well and save the price.

The long, telescope-handled wall brushes should not be overlooked while laying in tools for the job. There are three heads which come for this brush—one of soft lamb's wool, one of deep bristles, and the third a so-called "bone head" brush, which may be used for high-corner cleaning or for washing high windows and transoms.

Double-headed upholstery brushes clean the dust from tufted cracks and around buttons or cords. Short-handled wheels are good for the fancy pillows from day bed or couch. The vacuum cleaner takes out the big dirt and the brushes finish the job.

Cotton-funnel dust rags are invaluable at this time for all kinds of polishing. After the furniture has been carefully washed off with white soap and soft water, and dried with cheesecloth, then rubbed with polish, the cotton-funnel cloths with plenty of strength back of them finish the work.

WOMEN MEET, CRISIS IN NEAR EAST RELIEF

Sponsor Lives of 25,000 Children to Keep Them From Starving.

Twelve million women in America are raising to the cry of the starving children, "Feed the Near East Relief in Constantinople and Asia Minor. Lack of funds has forced the organization to make a 25 per cent cut in its orphanage appropriations during the spring months, when relief work is more seriously needed than at any other time during the year.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt has formed a Women's Emergency Committee of representative women from every corner of the land. The committee represents 12,000,000 American women, and their appeal to the motherhood of America to save the 25,000 children now under sentence of death because of the cut by Near East Relief. It must be a super-gift, the women say, and must be added over and above to whatever gifts their communities may have made during the year to the work of Near East Relief.

Mrs. Vanderlip a Witness
Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, recently returned from the Near East, says: "Galsworthy said that one of the striking American qualities is a deep affection for all children. Not just one's own, but for every child anyone of us meets anywhere. When I saw the pale, thin faces, dumb, hopeless eyes and the emaciated bodies under the scanty clothes of the refugee children in the Near East I longed to bring home to the child-loving people here a poignant appeal for help to save their lives and restore childhood peace to their hearts. The respect which knowing these people gives one bases my desire to save these children on a serious recognition of the terrible loss the world will sustain if this fine population perishes."

Near East Relief officers estimate that if the women of the United States will keep 25,000 children alive it will be possible to meet the needs of the other 75,000 under American care and protection in the Near East.

Among the women who compose the Women's Emergency Committee (that will make every effort to "finish the job") are:

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman; Mrs. Philip North Moore, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Mrs. George Maynard Minor, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Miss Blin West, Miss Anna A. Gordon, Mrs. Lena Lake Forrest, Mrs. Ellie Luce Chapin, Mrs. Agnes H. Parker, Mrs. Percy V. Pennington, Mrs. Mary R. Berts Reinhardt, Miss Jane Addams, Professor Yida Scudder, Mrs. Livingston Howe Schuster, Mrs. Millbank Johnson, Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, Miss Mary Emma Woolley, Mrs. George Horner Berrier, Doctor Esther Loyd, Mrs. William Atherton Dupuy, Mrs. Eugene J. Guise, Mrs. Milton P. Higgins, Miss Charl Ormond Williams, Mrs. Frederick Abbott, Mrs. Charles E. Wolbert, Mrs. James W. Rensick, Mrs. Florence Spencer Duryea, Mrs. Frank J. Shuler, Mrs. Robert J. Reed, Mrs. Coleman du Pont, Mrs. Robert E. Speer, Mrs. Merrill McCormick, Mrs. Lizzie George Henderson, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Mrs. Cleveland H. Dodge, Mrs. William Fraser McDowell, Mrs. Mary LaRocca, Mrs. Clarence F. R. Tenna, Mrs. John S. Drum, Miss Rose Brenneke, Miss Elizabeth Marbury, Miss Mary Mullett, Mrs. Edwin M. Butkley, Mrs. Harold A. Hatch, Miss Agnes Petton, Mrs. John H. Elder, Miss Julia Lathrop, Miss Lillian Wald, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, Mrs. Webster Fox, Jr., Miss Jane J. Martin, Mrs. Minnie Madden Fiske, Mrs. H. L. Robbins, Mrs. Harriet L. Taylor, Miss Linton, Mrs. William M. Gorton, Mrs. Walter W.

ARCHBISHOP HAYES ENDORSES NEAR EAST RELIEF

U.S.U. Archbishop Hayes

His Grace, Archbishop Hayes, recently sent the following letter to Near East Relief: "I enclose check for five thousand ($5,000) from the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York for the appealing Christian work of your committee."

"I am shocked to learn how terrifying are the present conditions in the Near East, especially in Armenia. A stop must be put by the Christian world to this reign of massacre, famine, disease and horrors of every description. All must help."

"I commend most earnestly the appeal of the Near East Relief to the charitable thinking and mercifully disposed people of New York and in particular to the Catholic portion of the community."

"Very sincerely yours, (Signed) 'PATRICK J. HAYES, Archbishop of New York.' National headquarters of the Near East Relief are located at 151 Fifth Avenue, New York."

HEAD OF NEAR EAST RELIEF MAKES APPEAL

Charles V. Vickroy

Twenty-five thousand innocent children have been condemned to death by the will of the American people. Such is the statement made by Charles V. Vickroy, General Secretary of the Near East Relief, on the passing of a resolution by the executive board of that organization cutting down the appropriations for relief twenty-five per cent.

"At the lowest possible administrative cost," says Mr. Vickroy, "the Near East Relief has been caring for one hundred thousand children, the homeless little orphans of the Near East. The cut in appropriations, made necessary by the decreased contributions, means that twenty-five thousand equal helpless children now on our doorstep must be refused admission and turned into the streets to perish of cold and hunger. There can be no other fate than that awaiting them. We are their only help and support."

"Five dollars a month will commute the sentence for one child. And I do not believe there is a man or woman in a home in America who could not and would not give that much to save a little child."

MAGNIFICENT CO-OPERATION OF EPISCOPAL COMMUNION

A plan of co-operation in the work administered by Near East Relief has been inaugurated by Bishop Thomas F. Gallor, Presiding Bishop, and council of the Protestant Episcopal Church. An Auxiliary Committee consisting of eminent clergymen, including bishops, clergy and laymen, is being formed. This committee will be nation-wide in its personnel and will have a local executive committee with a prominent layman as chairman.

An especial emergency appeal is going forth to all parishes of the Episcopal Church for a Lenten contribution. Ten thousand orphan children, for whom no other provision is possible today, are made the special charge of the Episcopal Church.

Bishop Gallor has given his personal endorsement to the Lenten appeal of

GOOD SOAP FOR LESS THAN TWO CENTS A POUND

Make It At Home By This Easy Process—Takes Less
Than 30 Minutes.

Nowadays, more and more women are doing as their mothers did and are making their own soap. If you have never tried it, you will be surprised to see how easy it is to make good soap, soft soap, hard soap or floating soap, just by using kitchen scraps and waste grease together with a can of Merry War Lye, the safe and sure soapmaker.

In the old days when soap was made by the boiling process it took nearly all day to make a kettle of soap. Now it is hardly any work at all—requires no boiling—takes less than 30 minutes. Saves you money and gives you all the pure, clean soap you need for kitchen, laundry and all household purposes. You will find simple directions for soapmaking on the label of every can of Merry War Lye—also many other recipes such as how to make lye hominy, how to soften water, how to make clothes washing easy, how to brighten cooking utensils, etc.

Merry War Powdered Lye is also a wonderful cleaner and purifier for use about the home, barn, chicken house and outhouses. Comes in a convenient can with revolving sifting top that cannot come off, cannot get lost, recloses tightly and preserves contents. It is economical to buy and easy to use.

Ask your dealer for Merry War Lye—be sure you get "Merry War"—the lye that has made good for 33 years.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

How Madge and Dicky Found Katie.

LUCKILY there's a side entrance to "his restaurant."

Without appearing to notice it, I knew that Dicky was contemplating my black eye ruefully, dreading our entrance into even so unpretentious a restaurant as the one before us, where we expected to find Katie.

I shrank from curious glances myself, but with true feminine inconsistency, I remented a similar attitude in Dicky. Just exactly how I expected him to feel I cannot tell, but I suspect that deep within me was the absurd romantic longing to have him take me on his arm and with head held high, sweep into the most exclusive dining-room in the city.

The little detail that I would almost have died before I would have faced such an ordeal made no difference in my secret feeling that Dicky should not have been ashamed of my appearance.

But, fortunately for me, my common sense is generally strong enough, effectively to smother the rathos which, in my disgust, lurked within my bosom, and I forced an enthusiastic assent to my life.

"Oh, I'm an idiot," I thought, "suppose there are many people in there who don't know me. I'll tell you now that I don't want to go here. I've danced around to your time all the morning, but this restaurant was in going to turn and go home."

"I thought I'd order some food or drink, and a lot of tea," I said. "I could hardly order less."

Dicky smiled.

"You'll have no taken on that bet," he drawled. "But it's a good enough bluff at that, so we'll make it double. Come along."

The Waiter Is Amused.

I followed him tremulously into the side door of the restaurant which held less than half a dozen customers in all. A counter for serving ran the whole length of the room at the back with a hole in the wall behind it through which the waiters shouted their orders and received in return the food for their customers. As we entered a burly white-aproned chap shouted in tones that could be heard a block:

Bouldin Case Is Heard By Court

The case of Harry Bouldin, charged with murder, was the first case called in the criminal division of the circuit court today. One hundred special veniremen were sworn in at the opening of the court. The rest of the week will be taken up in hearing capital cases.

WITNESSES EXAMINED

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13.—(Special)—Announcement was made by the public service commission today that the cross-examination of witnesses by the city of Mobile in the Mobile gas case had been postponed from Monday to April 20 because of other business before the commission. The city has protested against the valuation of the gas property as fixed tentatively by the commission and proposes to show that the valuation should not be so high.

"Two on a raft, one Java," I whispered.

"Round like a Conard novel, doesn't he?" Dicky whispered back. "But it's nothing so high-brow. He simply means two peached eggs and one tin of coffee. Pipe this one that's coming after us."

I followed Dicky's eyes to a little weazened man, who might have been 40 or 45, who was gazing up to us with a crash-like motion. I saw, to a deformity in his shoulders.

He was a whole head shorter than I, and he evidently had near-sightedness to his other afflictions. For he gave no indication of noting anything unusual in my appearance, with he was directly in front of us. Then he started violently, and with an astonished grin peered up at my black eye with a curiosity so genuine like that I felt no resentment, only an almost uncontrollable inclination to laugh.

"Measles Graham!"

Then he turned his glance on Dicky, measuring him, and there was more than curiosity. It was distinct admiration and respect that shone in his wrinkled face, and I saw my husband bite his lips to keep back a chuckle until the little man turned away and led us to a table so near the counter that we could hear the clatter from the kitchen. But it was a table somewhat shielded from the rest of the room, and I dropped into my seat, thankful that so much of my ordeal was over.

While Dicky gave the order I was conscious that the old fellow was still fixtively gazing at me, and when he went to the counter he did not shoot our orders through the opening, but nuzzling over a door, disappeared into the region beyond.

"If he were big enough, I'd punch his nose for him," Dicky growled, grinning reluctantly. "But he's—"

"He's simply delicious," I said. "And he doesn't feel sorry for me, or shocked at you a bit."

"He looks as if he were saying, 'You will get funny with your husband, will you? Well, he's the brother of a boy that can't get you proper. I'll bet he's telling the kitchen force about you so they can keep through the window at a real he-man. Listen, I told you so!'"

From the kitchen came a subdued giggle, and in Katie's unmistakable accents:

"You poor feesh, let me look!"

Then there was a wild scream of: "Measles Graham, oh, my Measles Graham!" and Katie came flying through the kitchen door, upsetting the little waiter and his tray as she came.

KNOX LOSES FIGHT AGAINST SENTENCE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13.—W. H. Knox, state law enforcement agent, today finally lost his fight against a hard labor sentence imposed in Jefferson county for assaulting Phil Painter, Birmingham newspaper man. The supreme court today declined to change the decision of the court of appeals which affirmed the 30 days hard labor sentence and $500 fine imposed by the Jefferson circuit court. He will apply for a rehearing and if it is denied he must go on the roads.

STUDENTS' SPLENDID SPIRIT

Despite the fact that more than 50 per cent of the Auburn students are working their way through college, or borrowing the money with which to gain the training to fit them for a life of greater usefulness to their state, members of the student body have voluntarily subscribed more than $26,000 toward the million dollar fund of the Greater Auburn Campaign. The initiative in the movement was taken by the students themselves, and they originally set their quota at $15,000, which was almost doubled as soon as opportunity was given. If these boys, many of whom must labor for several years after finishing Auburn to repay sums they have borrowed, can afford to give $26,000 so that other boys and girls of Alabama can work with better equipment and facilities than they enjoyed, surely the people of Alabama can afford to subscribe one million dollars for the same purpose.

FACULTY'S GENEROSITY

Despite the fact that not one penny of the money raised in the Greater Auburn Campaign can be used for salaries, the loyal members of the faculty, overworked and underpaid, though they are, have contributed $10,000 out of their meager salaries toward the campaign. Their pride of Auburn, their love for the institution, and of the state, has caused them to deprive themselves of many of the comforts and conveniences of life in order to make liberal donations so that ambitious boys and girls of Alabama might have proper facilities with which to get their training.

All patriotic Alabamians interested in the welfare of the boys and girls, and in the economic development of their state, can well afford to emulate the examples of these loyal faculty members.

Early Greek Writing.
The earliest Greek inscriptions were written from right to left. Next came the method called "boustrophedon," in which the written lines run alternately, from left to right, or a vice versa. Lastly, writing from left to right became universal.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

The Promise That Katie Made Seem a Vow.

MEETER GRAHAM.

Katie's voice held the same mixture of mischief and fright which I had seen in her face when we made our exit through the side door of the restaurant. The conviction deepened in my mind that she had some reason to fear the possible wrath of the restaurant proprietor whose service she had quitted so unceremoniously.

Dicky halted in his rapid stride and looked down at her indulgently.

"Yes, Katie, what's on your mind?"

Katie giggled in embarrassed fashion.

"I think we better take dot taxiab and get away from this place quick as we can."

She indicated an empty machine.

Dicky looked at her keenly, then without a word, but with an odd little smile, lifted his stick, summoned the man and put us into the machine. As he did so, I looked nervously back and saw the restaurant proprietor come pell-mell out of his door, and look wildly up and down the street. Luckily he looked the other way first, and at the driver's question as to our destination, I blurted out the first thing which came into my mind:

"Brooklyn Bridge, and hurry."

"I'm afraid to tell."

"What the—?" Dicky began in amazement, but I put my finger on my lips, and he contented himself with glaring at me until we had safely rounded the corner without the restaurant proprietor catching sight of us, a fact of which I assured myself by turning and looking through the rear window.

"The restaurant man was looking for us, I am sure," I said in explanation at last, turning and facing my frate husband. "So I said the first thing which came into my head."

"Dot's about so good as any place."

Katie announced cheerfully. "I got me a room over here couple blocks, but my rent she paid, so voman's vont lose nodings, and I got nodings over dere but old nightgown and sweater dot I got!"

gig pretty quick to rummage sale. All my good tings ofer to my cozine's hot very far from Brooklyn Bridge, and my comb and brush and lottle tings and clean blouse in here!"

she indicated a small bag packed handy. "I always keep dese tings handy, and shoot now I tell my suit ofer my work dress. I feel me oop at my cozine's eef you have time."

Katie Confesses.

Dicky consulted his watch.

"We have plenty of time, for we can get lunch while you are at your cozine's—can you get something to eat there?"

"Oh, yea! She feex me something nice."

"Then, that's settled. But how"—affecting a sternness which I knew he did not feel—"suppose you tell me, you imp, what you did to make you so afraid that restaurant proprietor was on your trail?"

Katie looked slyly up at him.

"I'm afraid to tell," she said, but her voice held nothing of remorse or shame. Instead, it carried a note of jubilation.

"Try to conquer your fear," Dicky said dryly.

"Vot you mean?" Katie demurely asked, and as well as I know her, I could not tell whether her black expression was real or assumed.

"I mean," thundered Dicky, "to stop this nonsense and tell us what you did. Jim's absence and her own adventure for many a day."

There may be a policeman after us now."

I almost laughed aloud myself at this suggestion, and Katie was not at the least impressed.

"He pretty smart policeman eef he find me," she said. "I no gif my own name, ven I go by heem to vork, and nobody knowe me ofer dot side of river. But I bet he awful mad shoot same."

"Katie!" My voice held the note which has rarely failed to bring obedience from her. "I want you to tell me at once what you did."

She gulped, looked at me and giggled treppishly again.

"Noting much," she said. "Old peeg, I wish I could feex him good and plenty! But I took me can of kerosene oil and I pour it into refrigerator and ofer everything else I could reach. I didn't have time to feex everything," she added with a regretful note.

Dicky threw back his head and laughed long and heartily, while I tried in vain to look properly shocked, and Katie grinned in samn-like triumph.

"Katie, I've certainly got to slip you the frosted cake," Dicky said at last, wiping his eyes. "What a prize winner you'd be for the cooks' union what they're on a strike. But don't you ever take a notion to pour kerosene oil over the food in our refrigerator. If you do, you'll run back to your restaurant mas to get away from me."

"Poot!" Katie registered scorn. "I tink I know difference real peoples and peeg hogs. And I nefer, nefer long as I live go away from my peoples again. I shoot a fool to make all this mess shoot about feeling bad for dot Jean. Ven he come home he com, dot's all."

Which philosophical observation was the only one I heard Katie make upon Jim's absence and her own adventure for many a day.

Advertise Truth, Advertise Often

that it should be absolutely truthful and the descriptions of goods should ally exactly with the goods, likewise newspaper prices and cost marks should be the same. "No business can afford not to advertise," was one of the outstanding teachings of the lecturer. He said that printer's ink, whether in letters or on the printed page, were the business getters. By way of illustrating how advertising can be made to bring down the cost or fixed charges Mr. Irwin said, "Take a store, say doing $50,000 worth of business. There being, say the proprietor and two clerks in the sales department. The overhead charges need not be changed one iota, if the business is increased to say $75,000 or even $100,000, and the way to get new and increased business is to advertise for it—you want to advertise just as if you had lost something, and indeed you have lost something if you do not advertise."

The speaker said that newspaper advertising might as well be supplemented occasionally by letters addressed directly to individuals. It was declared that a regular amount should be set aside in every business to advertise with, and that such effort should be carried on methodically and persistently. In connection with this stress on attractively worded advertisements, Mr. Irwin read a number of sample display and smaller ads—some that were evidently bad imitations of the real thing, and also a number of model advertisements were read.

Tonight Mr. Irwin will speak at Hardage Hall at 8 o'clock on "Getting the Most Out of Business."

APPEAL DISMISSED

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13.—(Special)—Walter Delaney and Forrest Scott alias Trouble, negro, will again be sentenced to death by the circuit court of Mobile county as a result of their failure to perfect their appeals to the supreme court. Announcement was made by the court Wednesday that the appeals from death sentence imposed by the circuit court of Mobile county in 1921 had been dismissed because the transcripts had not been filed within the time allowed by law.

How Many Pounds Will You Gain

On Your First Package of IRONIZED YEAST?

Do you need more flesh? Are you pale, lacking in energy—or is your complexion blushed by humiliating pimples, blackheads, or boils? If so, simply go for your package of IRONIZED YEAST. Take these remarkably effective tablets—two with each meal. Then watch the results! Very likely you will be actually astonished at the improvement shown in you even after the first 48 hours. For IRONIZED YEAST embodies a remarkable new scientific process—a process which enables yeast to bring its splendid results often in just half the usual time.

How New Process Makes Yeast Doubly Effective

Science admits that yeast is of value in building flesh, clearing the skin, and increasing energy. It is found that yeast alone is not enough to bring 100 per cent results. For while yeast contains certain vital elements—lacking in diet, yet essential to health—experiments prove that some other agent is needed in order to quickly convert these important yeast elements into new firm tissue, energy, and health.

Everyone knows the great value of iron in changing our food into living cells. So working on this problem, our scientists finally discovered the amazing process of ironization—the scientific process which enables yeast to derive from yeast ALL of the wonderful benefits it holds for you.

Beware of Substitutes

This remarkable process of ironization is embodied ONLY in IRONIZED YEAST. The due scientific method of ironization, which makes IRONIZED YEAST a superior, therefore it is widely imitated. You are cautioned against accepting cheap inferior imitations, which in most cases are merely mixtures of ordinary yeast and iron. Always insist upon the genuine IRONIZED YEAST. It is the only way you can be sure of getting the best. Get IRONIZED YEAST today. $1.00 a package.

Notes:—IRONIZED YEAST is sold at all Drug Stores on our guarantee of complete satisfaction from the first package or your money refunded.

AUBURN NEWS

AUBURN, Ala., April 13—(Special)

Several days before cotton is out of the ground boll weevils were reported active in considerable numbers in south Alabama, according to a statement by Dr. W. E. Hinds, entomologist for the Alabama extension service and experiment station, upon returning to Auburn after spending several days in Geneva county.

Many farmers told Dr. Hinds of seeing boll weevils flying in the field and otherwise active, which verifies the announcement made by Dr. Hinds several weeks ago that boll weevils survived the past winter in large numbers, and that it will be dangerous for farmers to increase their acreage to a very great extent this year. In spite of this unusual boll weevil activity, Dr. Hinds observed that the general tendency is toward a decided increase in cotton acreage.

Discussing the matter further, Dr. Hinds states that ordinarily the farmers in southwest Alabama should not plant more than six acres of cotton per acre; those in central Alabama six to seven acres; and in north Alabama, seven to ten acres.

For dusting cotton calcium arsenate has proven to be practical and profitable, but ordinarily it has not proven profitable where the yield is less than one-third bale per acre. Therefore the safe plan for the farmers of Alabama is to plant sufficient food and feed crops for home needs, to practice diversified farming, leaving cotton as a surplus money crop.

IN NEED OF LAND

Another serious handicap in the agricultural department at Auburn is the lack of land upon which to farm and conduct the experiments which mean so much to the farmers of the state. Auburn owns approximately only 200 acres of land of which 200 acres are given over to teaching and research. Compare this small amount with the records of other southern agricultural colleges: The Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College owns 3510 acres; the North Carolina Agricultural and Engineering College; 1700; Clemson College, 2000; Florida University, 785; Kentucky University, 356; Tennessee University, 1625.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, April 12—After all the things that have been said about our city, and all the times it has stood patiently before the country as the concentration of wickedness, its pretty nice to hear the reports of the committee of fourteen. This committee, made up of conscientious, thorough-going investigators, declares that New York is the cleanest, morally, of all the big cities in the world. The report, prepared by Percy S. Strauss, of the committee, covers the years 1920-21, but reviews briefly conditions in the city since 1905.

Right on top of that, we have to confess that 12,000 Wall street men have just taken out permits to carry pistols—and have started carrying them—in an effort to protect themselves against the renewed sweep of hold-ups.

The largest clock in the world will soon stand at the corner of Broadway and Forty-fourth street, the upper angle of Times Square. The Heart of New York Business Men's association is putting it there, right on top of the new police tower, so that it may be seen across the breadth of Manhattan Island and for a long ways north and south.

"West of Pittsburg" is the name of the third comedy by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, which will be produced shortly. These two young playwrights jumped into such instant popularity with "Dulcy," followed by a second success in "To The Ladies," that we have already reached the point of happy expectancy when a new production by them is announced.

The lecture platform has become an important factor in feminine life in this part of the country that our fashion experts are recognizing it! "Fashions for the Platform" have now gained the special attention of designers and fashion writers, and nothing could be much more official than that—nor more significant of the fact that we are still feminine whatever our activities.

As a shining example of model citizenship, Joseph Johnson, 34 years old, of 1512 Lexington avenue, is almost pre-eminent. Johnson, who said he was a dealer in malt and hops, found himself unexpectedly leaning against a lamp post the other night, and he didn't seem quite able to proceed away from there. He therefore looked for a policeman, and when he could not see one, he touched a button on a nearby police signal box, raised the telephone receiver inside and yelled "Send a cop right away!" The flash of the signal light brought several patrolmen and Johnson was taken to the police station without delay and in complete agreement over the procedure.

If you are going to decorate your apartment with African spears, be certain that you have a native African janitor at your parties to administer first aid. Miss Ida Vera Simonton, who has spent much time in Africa and written several books on her explorations and experiences, gave a dance the other night to 35 members of the Blue Door club. The party was on the point of breaking up when an African spear, hanging on the trophy wall, fell to the floor, the point cutting Miss Ursula Gills, 26 Van Corlear Place, just below the ankle. The wound began to swell immediately and some one telephoned Bellevue hospital for "an antidote to African poison." Meantime, however, "Congo," whose real name no one appeared to know, took charge of affairs, "Congo" works in the daytime as janitor in a Washington Square apartment house, while in the evening his services are occasionally requisitioned for native dancing. It was as a dancer that he had been summoned to Miss Simonton's party. He insisted there was only one hope for the spear victim and he accordingly sucked the poison from the wound in true explorer's fashion and all turned out well.

Another streak of sunshine has broken through the clouds of home-hunting for girls who are in New York working and studying and want to live comfortably and economically. This streak takes the form of the Cathedral hotel, to be built at Broadway and 122nd street, under the approval of the Episcopal Diocese of New York. Three million dollars will be raised for the construction of the hotel and it will be put upon a strict business basis; no "charity" involved. It is believed that rooms can be rented as low as $12 a month and still return dividends on the investment. While it is particularly intended for girls in the city alone, there will be apartments for families as well.

Reward Offered For Negro's Slayer

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13—Governor Kilby issued a proclamation today offering a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of David Adkinson, respectable negro who lived near Wetumpka, Moore county. Prominent citizens of Moore county became interested following the finding of the negro's body and urged that the state offer the reward.

C. B. Reneau, assistant solicitor, told Governor Kilby the killing was premeditated and had aroused resentment throughout the county. Adkinson's old mother had offered $50 for the conviction of the murderer.

"Things for Men and Little Men"
BANK STREET
DECATUR, ALA.

Marjory Finn Pointer Wins Third Prize

When Gene Walden stepped off the train to make the Twin Cities his future home, the first thing that his eyes fell upon was, "Things for Men and Little Men," W. M. Bailey's sign. Curiosity thus led him to find the clothing store advertising in this attractive manner. After seeing the marvelous prices on kents clothing, you will not be surprised when I tell you this young man came out attired in one of those lovely, well fitting, spring suits. Turning to a gentleman, standing near by, he said, "Could you tell me where I can find the best shoes for the money, in the Twin Cities?" The answer was, "Certainly, Moseley-Eggers Shoe Co. in Albany, give a discount of 10 per cent on each pair of shoes. You'll get solid leather, style, and service. Catch the main-line car for Albany." Needless to say within a short time, this young man was stylishly attired from head to foot. Walking down to 714 Second avenue, he left his old suit to be made as good as new, by the Oversea Cleaning and Pressing Parlor. In the meantime his old shoes were being repaired by Freeman Shoe Shop. Being so delighted in finding such wonderful bargains in the Twin Cities, he almost forgot it was lunch hour. The cleanliness of the Decatur Cafe was noticed by him, when passing, so naturally he went there for lunch. Providence seemed to direct this young man to this particular place, because, not only did he get the best meal he had ever eaten, but by chance met a girl who was beautifully attired in a fashionable coat suit and a little red hat, that she purchased at the Fashion. Their admiration was mutual. An engagement was made for that afternoon to meet at the Beacon-Cobb Drug Co. to renew their conversation and at the same time to enjoy soda-fountain drinks, which the Beacon-Cobb Drug Co. make a specialty of. After going to see this young lady several times, Gene called the City Park Greenhouse and ordered one dozen beautiful roses, and sent them to her. A month had passed and he was desperately in love. He was trying to do everything he could for her, sent her candy from R. B. Graves store, bought her Clopton's Eg-

THE CALL

By Juanita Hamel

THE song of the winter winds—the message of the frosty air—the telegraphic-like summons of the ringing of steel upon ice—these are what lure HER into the open, warmly mitted and sweated, fully equipped to dash out upon the ice. But what most thrills her—what quickens her step as well as her heart—is the voice of him she loves. This is THE call of calls to her!

GOVERNOR LEAVES
MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13—(Special)—Governor Thomas E. Kilby and W. A. Darden, private secretary, left by automobile late Wednesday for Birmingham where the governor is scheduled to make an address at the state conference on illiteracy which was called by the governor.

CITIZENS OF ALABAMA OWE A DUTY to the boys and girls at Auburn.

Alabama's leading technical institution, from which have graduated great men who have achieved fame in all parts of the civilized world, is about to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary. But Auburn, although only fifty years old, is in fact in appearance much older, and this age shows itself mostly in the buildings, the equipment and facilities offered the boys and girls who are literally "digging out" an education.

While other institutions of similar type in other states are spending from one to three millions of dollars in their buildings, Auburn has spent less than one-fourth of a million, and is forced to adjust her student body of over twelve hundred of the best boys and girls of the state to building and equipment intended for hardly half that number. Practically all of the twelve hundred students are forced to find accommodations in the homes of the citizens of that small town, for there is only one small dormitory, erected during the war and for temporary purposes which will house about one hundred and sixty.

There is urgent need of better equipment for students who are studying engineering, of an auditorium to accommodate the students who are anxious to attend lectures, of a hospital and medical equipment to properly take care of the boys and girls when they fall sick, of a suitable library, of suitable buildings for the study of the various branches of farming and stock raising and many other facilities.

A million dollars, the amount that is proposed to raise in this campaign, will barely in a measure meet all these and other urgent needs for the boys and girls who are so anxious to acquire an education, but assurance is given that the next legislature will make an appropriation to match this amount and thus assure the future of Auburn for many years to come.

The call has come out from the boys and girls who have graduated from this school and are now an honor to this state, to come to the aid of their Alma Mater and they are sending a noble example in the sacrifices they are making towards raising this much desired quota. Each of the three thousand alumni is pledged to raise two hundred and fifty dollars, but the call goes to all citizens to aid them in this work, as well as making up the balance of two hundred and fifty thousand.

What will the citizens of this community do, and how will they respond to this worthy call?

CONGRESSMAN DIES

WASHINGTON, April 13—Congressman Samuel Mitchell Brinson, Democrat of North Carolina, died today at his home in Newburn, N. C., according to telegrams to members of the North Carolina delegation in the house. Brinson was elected to the house in November, 1920.

LAST ACT OF RALPH BOYD WAS GIFT TO "OLD AUBURN"

Boy's Dying Request Was for $50 Liberty Bond to Go to Alma Mater—Life Might Have Been Saved By Hospital

When young Ralph Boyd, of Livingston, Ala., one of the brightest and most ambitious students at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, received serious injuries in a football game only a few weeks ago at Auburn, the lack of hospital facilities and much needed medical supplies prevented giving him such immediate attention and proper care as his case demanded, and Ralph died, despite all the efforts to save his life with the limited equipment at hand. This boy's life might have been saved if the firm belief of those who were familiar with his case, and yet one of the last expressed wishes of this boy was that his Liberty Bond of fifty dollars should go to the Greater Auburn Semi-Centennial fund. This Liberty bond practically constituted all of Ralph's worldly possessions.

Ralph is dead, but there are hundreds of other boys and also many girls now "digging" out an education at Auburn, who are also handicapped in many ways and placed at a disadvantage and whose very lives are also endangered by the lack of equipment and facilities to properly pursue their studies and develop their mental and physical well being.

The school is over-crowded. Students are living in tents and classes have to be held before breakfast and after supper, and officials of the institution are seriously handicapped for the lack of buildings and equipment. Not only the parents of Ralph Boyd at Livingston, Ala., who have nine other children at home and who had great hopes for their son, are looking anxiously to see what the answer of Alabama's citizenship will be to this appeal for one million dollars for better equipment, but the parents of hundreds of others anxious for an education, are turning their eyes in this direction awaiting the answer. Just why the powers that be at Montgomery have been so niggardly in making provision for this great asset of the State, we can only surmise, but although comparisons are odious, the following figures speak for themselves. These figures were compiled by Fred H. Gormley, clerk of the house, from the annual report of State Auditor H. F. Lee, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1921, and show the values of some of the buildings of institutions, as compared with the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, to be as follows: State capital, $1,300,000; Alabama Insane Hospital, $1,464,472.27; University of Alabama, $1,410,000; Alabama Polytechnic Institute, $713,000.

The need is great and the citizenship of Alabama now has a great opportunity to do a magnificent thing, and at the same time an act of justice, by making liberal contributions to an institution whose products have added luster to the name and fame of Alabama in all parts of the civilized world.

STATE NOT INTERESTED
MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13—(Special)—Alabama's legal department took no part whatever in the investigations of Birmingham affair which were made at a special session of the Jefferson county grand jury this week. This declaration was made by Harwell G. Davis, attorney-general, today following the publication of reports that one of the attorneys who took part in the investigation probably appeared for the attorney-general's department.

FIRE REPORT MADE
MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13—(Special)—Alabama lost 2.5 citizens and property valued at $7,428,894 by 5,549 fires during the fiscal year which ended September 30, 1921, according to the annual report of W. J. Williams, state fire marshal, submitted to Governor Kilby today. This is an increase of 59 deaths over the previous year.

KELLY POOL HIT
MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 13—(Special)—Kelly pool will be outlawed from Montgomery pool rooms if the city commission adopts an ordinance presented today. A fine of $100 will be imposed for the first offense and a jail term for additional offenses. The commission postponed final action until next week.

DOES LAUNDRY WORK AND HOUSEWORK TOO

Surprised to Find Herself Feeling So Well

Taunton, Mass. — "I used to have pains in my back and legs so badly, with other troubles that women sometimes have, that my doctor ordered me to stay in bed a week in every month. It didn't do me much good, so one day after talking with a friend who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about the same troubles I had, I thought I would try it also."

I find that I can work in the laundry all through the time and do my housework, too. Last month I was so surprised at myself to be up and around and feeling so good while before I used to feel completely lifeless. I have told some of the girls who work with me and have such troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I tell them how it has helped me. You can use my testimonial for the good of others. — Mrs. BLANCHE SILVIA, 69 Grant St., Taunton, Mass.

It's the same story—one friend telling another of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Progress Sanitary All Metal Refrigerators and Ice Chests

Are made entirely of Heavy Apollo Galvanized Iron and are double walled throughout. The space between the walls is air and water tight and is tightly packed with the best Insulating Material. This double insulation and their very tight construction, makes these Refrigerators the best and most Economical and most Sanitary of all Refrigerators. They have Nickel Plated Brass Hinges and Locks, Ball Bearing Rollers, Automatic Cast Drip Cups and Swinging Base Boards. Every inside part is instantly removable for cleaning. The enamel is baked on in three coats under intense heat, insuring a very hard and durable surface. The workmanship and finish, is of the highest grade and they are handsome and attractive in every way.

Their Superiority Over Wood Refrigerators

Being all metal and of air tight construction, outside warm air is always excluded. The doors and lids always fit close, and are not affected by atmospheric conditions, or wet or dry climates. They can neither shrink, swell, warp, rust, mold or decay, and are always fly, roach and bug proof. They are always absolutely odorless and sanitary and their air tight construction insures a perfect circulation of cold dry air in the provision chamber, which cannot be had in wood refrigerators, whose doors and lids soon become loose and ill-fitting, admitting warm air as well as flies and bugs.

Progress Refrigerators will consume 20 percent to 40 percent less ice than wood refrigerators of the same capacity in the Provision Chambers and will at the same time maintain a temperature several degrees colder. They will, with proper care last a lifetime and be tight, sanitary, odorless and economical all the time. They are as easily cleaned as a plate. The saving of ice alone will soon pay their cost. They will also save much food that is spoiled through poor refrigeration in loose wood refrigerators.

They are at least as low, if not lower in price than standard wood refrigerators of the same provision chamber capacity.

They are lower in price than other Metal Refrigerators, and better than the best. They will settle all Refrigerator Troubles for life and be sanitary all the time. They are the most Economical, Sanitary, Odorless, Cleanly and Durable Refrigerators made anywhere.
